

Two Companies Fight For Oil And Gas Leases

Practically All Of Pike Township And Half Of Perry Under Lease—Lucky Strike Across Muskingum County Line Followed By Renewed Activity.

Leasers have been at work in Pike and Perry townships securing oil and gas leases. There has been considerable development in the past few years in the oil field about West Carlisle, the producing wells being confined to the territory south and southwest of that village.

For several years a large part of the east side of Perry township and the greater part of Pike township was kept under lease by various oil companies, but gradually a lot of the Perry township leases and some in Pike were allowed to lapse, or were surrendered.

Companies Compete.

Recently a representative of the Logan Oil and Gas company spent some days in the eastern part of Perry township and leased a large tract of territory, report having it that he took up nearly the entire east half of the township.

This move of the Logan company aroused the Columbus Oil and Gas company, which has done practically all of the development work in the West Carlisle field. The company sent its leaser, O. Burgess, of Mt. Perry, who spent Tuesday and Wednesday in northern Pike township endeavoring to get leases on the few remaining tracts. He secured practically all of the open land in that vicinity and also passed over into Perry and secured leases on several tracts of the most promising open land there.

Pike Leased Solid.

Pike township is now to all intents and purposes leased solid and at least one half of Perry is under lease. This is with good reason taken to mean that there is to be some test wells drilled in the Perry township territory, and probably more wells will be drilled in Pike township, the producing wells there being money makers for the owners. The present high price of oil is a great inducement for "wild-cattings" propositions, or the drilling of wells in new territory.

Strike Good One.

Recently a test well was drilled in on the Hamilton farm near Holmes' Locks, just across the Coshocton county line in Muskingum county, between Trinway and Frazesburg, and it came in as a gusher good for at least 1,500,000 feet per day. As this well is not a great distance from the West Carlisle field it is that the big gas strike has something to do with the revival of interest in oil and gas development in that part of the country.

Pickpockets Follow Show

Apparently professional pickpockets followed the Sells-Floto circus. William Beall, of near Keene, reported to the police that he believed the light fingered gentry had relieved him of about $20.

Beall cashed a check for $80 and placed $65 in an envelope. The remainder was placed in his trouser pocket. He made some minor purchases and walked around on lower Main street. Shortly afterwards, the money was gone.

Won't Catch Villa Easily

Edward Hopper says Francisco Villa will never be caught unless Uncle Sam intervenes in the Mexican family squabble. Hopper was in Coshocton Thursday with the Sells-Floto show.

He was formerly a rigging man with Ringling Bros., but had until nine weeks ago been in Laguna, Ciudad del Carmen, Mexico, where he was employed for three years on the chicle ranch, owned by Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, mother of William Randolph Hearst. Hopper says Carranza will never catch Villa, and goes further and says "Whiskeranza" is gathering up a bunch of money preparatory to seeking refuge in Spain.

After three years spent in Laguna conditions got so bad that Hopper fled the country and to accomplish this paid the captain of an English tramp steamer $127 to stow him away in his cargo of mahogany and chicle. He feared for his life if he remained longer in Laguna which is in southern Mexico. The Greasers had threatened him repeatedly and watching his chance he left while the leaving was good.

Misses Mudhole But Hits Ditch

In attempting to avoid a mudhole, H. G. Moffit, of South Water street, drove his auto over the embankment on Second street between Pine street and the end of the pavement Wednesday night.

Fortunately the car did not upset and the five occupants of the car retained their presence of mind so that no one was injured. The car was removed undamaged.

Fire Damages Bedford Hotel

Damage estimated at $250, covered by insurance, resulted Thursday morning when the Butler Hotel at West Bedford caught fire about six o'clock. The fire was extinguished by a bucket brigade formed soon after the fire was discovered. The origin of the fire is unknown. In order to fight the flames which spread rapidly, the volunteers cut a hole thru the roof.

Miller and his wife had witnessed the Mount Union State commencement exercises at which their son graduated. Woodrow Wilson and Thos. Marshall Lead Democrats COLISEUM, ST. LOUIS, JUNE 15.—Woodrow Wilson was nominated by acclamation at 11:54 p. m. and at 11:57 Thomas J. Marshall was nominated by acclamation to again be the candidate for vice-president on the Democratic ticket.

The Democratic national convention was called to order at 9:20 p. m. A great crowd was present and enthusiasm was running high. It was the hour for nominations.

Westcott Again

Judge John W. Westcott, attorney general of New Jersey, who placed Woodrow Wilson in nomination at Baltimore in 1912 performed the same service this evening, again nominating Wilson to be the Democratic standard bearer.

The Coliseum was immediately thrown into a tumult. A mighty roar went up when Judge Westcott pronounced the name of Woodrow Wilson. A hallelujah broke and there was no effort made to curb the rampant enthusiasm of the shouting, singing and marching throng. The delegates formed in lines and took a "tramp-tramp-tramp-for-Wilson" up and down the aisles of the mammoth auditorium.

Bryan For Wilson

The outstanding feature of the evening, aside from the nominations, was the great speech delivered by the "silver-tongued orator of the Platte," William J. Bryan, who in his inimitable eloquence perfected a verbal bouquet and placed it at the feet of the Wilson. He made no reservation and there is now slight room in which to build the story that Bryan is cold or indifferent toward the president.

Great Demonstration

Altho the name of Mr. Wilson was placed in nomination shortly after the opening of the evening session it was more than two and one-half hours before the convention assumed anything resembling order, so great had been the demonstration brot by the mention of the name of the president.

Karr Family Has Reunion

Descendants of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Karr were invited to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer J. Endsley, Thursday, at the Karr family home—stead on Route 3, north of Keene.

The occasion was an unusually enjoyable one, being the first reunion of some members of the family for more than ten years. One great grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Karr—the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Lawrence, of Millersburg—was present. Other members of the family represented were Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Karr and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Karr, and families, of Keene, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lawrence and family, of Route 3, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Karr and family, of Canal Lewisville, Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Karr and family, of Coshocton, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ross Karr, and family, of Fredericksburg, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Karr and family, of Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Karr, and Misses Eva and Elizabeth Karr, of Eaton, Colorado.

A. J. Shepler, of Coshocton, took a number of photographs of the group.

Seven Schools In The County Discontinued

The county board of education met at the court house Thursday afternoon and ordered seven small schools discontinued. This action has been anticipated, having been under consideration for some time.

On the recommendation of Supt. J. C. Wright, of the northwest district, the board ordered the following schools in his district closed:

- Hazel Glenn school, Monroe township.
- Green Valley school, Clark township.
- Soggy Hill school, Bethlehem township.
- Rocky Dale school, Bethlehem township.
- District Supt. T. G. Syler recommended that the Mud school in Keene township be closed, and it was so ordered.
- The board ordered that the Marlatt Run school in Oxford township, and the Carr school in Linton township be discontinued, upon the recommendation of Supt. Everhart.

Barton's District Unchanged.

The schools in the southwest district, under the direction of Supt. Barton, were, upon his recommendation, all continued. The pupils from the discontinued school will be assigned to schools in other districts by the board's education. The ruling is that pupils assigned to another township or county shall have their tuition paid by the home township of education. The expense of transportation must be paid by the board, where the distance to be traveled is in excess of two miles.

The county board meeting was attended by all five members: Alonzo Clark, Dr. E. M. Wright, J. J. Schumacher, G. V. Hahn, J. C. Muskinen.

CLARK ARRESTED.

Frank Clark was arrested last night and lodged in the City jail on a charge of intoxication. A second charge of annoying girls on the street was also placed against him.

NEW BABY LIST.

The baby girl, born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kaser, near Warsaw, June 14, has been named Marjorie June.

Operators And Miners Meet In Joint Session

Entire Meeting Taken Up By Discussion Of Various Problems—Operators Say They Cannot Compete With Neighboring Counties If Scale Raises.

The miners and operators in their opening session of the joint conference locked horns over the New York agreement calling for an advance of three cents per ton for pick mining.

The operators contended that they could not make the increase as it would put them at a disadvantage in competing with operators in neighboring counties. The miners stood firm for the increase and the matter was held up for the present.

Rules were then taken up and Rule One adopted. It provides for an eight hour day and fixes the duties of day laborers. Rule Two was discussed but the conference recessed without taking action. As several operators were called from the city, the conference will not reconvene until Wednesday.

Cows Try Paint Diet And Cash In

Do not throw your empty paint cans where the cow can get at them. Leo Buxton, of near West Bedford did so and two of his cows were taken ill Wednesday from lead poisoning and one of them died. They had licked the paint from the can.

Ideal Day For Circus

Thursday was an ideal circus day and Coshocton was hostess to a jolly throng of people out to see the sights and have a good time. From all indications none were disappointed. The day and the crowds reminded of fair time, or of an old-time circus day, except that the streets were crowded with automobiles, where a few years ago it was a stream of horse-drawn vehicles that wound its ways thru the streets from early morning until time for the parade. All roads led to the circus grounds on Denman avenue. The Sells-Floto show was all that had been promised. The parade was excellent and contained some entirely new and decidedly novel features and was a delight to old and young alike. The crowd was comparatively orderly only a few arrests being made.

Rear End Collision

A rear end collision resulting in a punctured tire occurred on Walnut street near Seventh last night when C. R. Thrapp to avoid a traffic crush jammed his brakes on stopping his car so suddenly that Walter Sprague, driving a taxi, was unable to avoid the collision. Thrapp's car had a punctured tire but no other damage resulted.

TWENTY-FIVE OUT OF EVERY THOUSAND INCAPACITATED

The following is issued by the United States Public Health Service:

Twenty-five out of every 1,000 employees in America industries, according to recent statistics, are constantly incapacitated by sickness, the average worker losing approximately nine days each year on this account. This "non-effective rate" for the great army of industrial workers in the United States barely suggests the total money loss to employers and employees. The lessened efficiency, the effects of reduced earnings in times of sickness, as well as the cost of medical attention, and the economic loss from deaths, swell the cost to industry and to the Nation to almost incalculable figures.

That much on this loss is nothing less than preventable waste and that this waste can be largely reduced by a properly conducted system of governmental health insurance for wage-workers are conclusions set forth in Public Health Bulletin No. 76, containing the results of a study of "Health Insurance—Its Relation to the Public Health," just issued by the United States Public Health Service. The preventive value of health insurance is given especial emphasis in this study. "Any system of health insurance for the United States or any State should at its inception have prevention of sickness as one of its fundamental purposes," says the bulletin.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank the friends and neighbors for their kindness during the sickness and death of our wife and mother. And for the beautiful flowers sent.

H. H. Zellars,
Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Zellars.

"This country should profit by the experience of European countries where prevention is being recognized as the central idea necessary to health insurance if health insurance is to attain its greatest success in improving the health and efficiency of the industrial population."

What It Would Do.

Such a system, it is pointed out in the bulletin, would

1. Provide cash benefits and medical service for all wage-earners in times of sickness at much less cost than is now possible. Adequate medical relief would thus be placed within the reach of even the lowest paid workers who are most subject to ill-health.

2. Distribute the cost among employers, employees, and the public as the groups responsible for disease-causing conditions and afford these groups a definite financial incentive for removing these conditions. This can be done by means of small weekly payments from employees supplemented by proportionate contributions from employers and government at a rate reducible in proportion to the reduction of sickness.

3. Become an effective health measure by linking the cooperative efforts of the three responsible groups with the work of National, State and local health agencies, and by utilizing these agencies in the administration of the health insurance system.

4. Afford a better basis for the co-operation of the medical profession with public health agencies.

5. Eliminate the elements of paternalism and charity-giving by making employees and the public, as well as employers, joint agents in the control of this fund.

"A governmental system of health insurance," concludes the study, "can be adapted to American conditions, and when adapted will prove to be a health measure of extraordinary value."

She Escaped Being An Old Maid

By BARBARA PHIPPS

My brother John came to me one day and said to me: "Sally, you're a woman. Tell me how to win a woman."

"All the ways of doing it?"

"No, a good way."

"If I were to tell you all of them I would never get through. Generally women are won by trifles—that is, they are considered trifles, but in the feminine mind, or, rather, heart, they stand for a good deal. Inconceivable cases sometimes need to be won by getting the rebellious object of a man's affections so tied that she can't get out of it. Then she accepts the situation, and time, intimate association and marriage do the rest."

"I wonder if I couldn't do that with Edna?"

"John had been courting Edna for a long while without seeming to have made the slightest impression. He had proposed seven times and been refused every time."

"What does she say when she refuses you?" I asked.

"The last time I asked her she said that she could never choose a man she knew because she would be sure to see in him a multitude of faults."

"Complimentary to you, wasn't it? Why don't you persuade her to marry a man as she would buy a lottery ticket, then contrive to be that man?"

"I don't understand you."

"Perhaps I can arrange it for you."

A few months later I said to John,

"How?"

"I didn't dare to act directly in the matter, knowing well that I, being your sister, Edna would infer that I was acting in your interest, so I sent a third party to her, Martha Jenkins. Martha had a talk about matrimony with her and saw plainly that Edna would like to be married. She said facetiously that the only way she could tie herself up with a man would be to marry some one in the dark. Martha advised her to do that very thing."

"Then my embassy began to hold up a picture of the old maid living alone through life and on old age, contrasting it with a view of a wife and mother surrounded by beings whom she had brought into the world. She has kept this up ever since, declaring that chance is as good as love to lose a marriage on, and the advice of a disinterested party is better than either. To this Edna laughingly asked Martha to choose a husband for her. Martha refused unless Edna would consent to marry him in the dark. Edna was a long time agreeing to this, but was finally won over, because she dreaded to be an old maid and couldn't make the matrimonial plunge with her eyes open."

"And Martha is to nominate me?" cried John.

"Of course—that is, if I ask her."

"Ask her at once."

It would require a large volume to lay down the backslidings of Edna Marsh in her efforts to marry a man she had never seen and who she knew would not be recommended unless he were worthy of her. She broke seven appointments for the wedding, not knowing that she was breaking one for every refusal she had given the man she had agreed to marry. On making the eighth Martha told her that if she broke it she might look elsewhere for aid to escape spinsterhood. But by this time Edna was desperate and came to the scratch like a lamb to the slaughter.

While Martha had Edna in training I had John. He feared that Edna would consider herself to have been tricked and would turn against him.

Well, the wedding day came round. The nuptials were to occur at Martha's home. There was no provision made as to the time the couple should begin living together, if at all. All that was left to their future wishes. They were simply to be tied together so that they couldn't break apart without a lot of trouble. Of course I was one of the invited guests, the only other two being Edna's mother and Martha—that is to say, Martha and I invited ourselves. She and I went to the house together—I thickly veiled—and we were ushered into a room into which not a ray of light was permitted to permeate.

We had been there about five minutes when we heard a carriage door close with a bang. I knew it was John, who was to come to her wedding, so muffled as not to be recognizable. We heard him go into the adjoining room, which also was as dark as Erebus. Then Martha and I went into that room. The clergyman had gone in before any of us. Edna came in through the anteroom. I fancied I could hear her teeth chatter. I heard persons moving about, and presently the parson began the service—from memory. When he had finished a dozen electric lights were turned on.

Edna looked up at John. First a look of infinite relief appeared on her face, and then, perhaps induced by the severe reaction, she put out her arms, and they hugged. We all breathed a sigh of relief, knowing that for the present at least we had not made trouble. It turned out that we had effected a very happy marriage. Edna was like one thrown in the water and obliged to sink or swim. John has made her an excellent husband, and she adores him. But John is my brother, you know. A number of children have come to the couple, and, since John has proved a good provider, all's well that ends well.

Miss Emma Jones has returned to her home in West Lafayette, after a visit at the home of Mrs. Frank Burton, of Coshocton.

Ranger. Resident in Mexico, in the southern United States, and north to New York, Ohio, Nebraska, and California.

Habits and economic status: The barn owl, often called monkey-faced owl, is one of the most beneficial of the birds of prey, since it feeds almost exclusively on small mammals that injure farm produce, nursery, and orchard stock. It hunts principally in the open and consequently secures such mammals as pocket gophers, field mice, common rats, house mice, harvest mice, kangaroo rats, and cotton rats. It occasionally captures a few birds and insects. At least a half bushel of the remains of pocket gophers have been found in the nesting cavity of a pair of these birds. Remembering that a gopher has been known in a short time to girdle seven apricot trees worth $100 it is hard to overestimate the value of the service of a pair of barn owls. One thousand two hundred and forty-seven pellets of the barn owl collected from the Smithsonian towers contained 3,100 skulls, of which 3,004, or 97 per cent, were mammals; 92, or 3 per cent, of birds; and 4 were of frogs. The bulk consisted of 1,987 field mice, 656 house mice, and 210 common rats. The birds eaten were mainly sparrows and blackbirds. This valuable owl should be rigidly protected throughout the entire range.

Oil-Proof Cement.

A cement which will not be affected by oil is made by mixing glycerine and litharge to the consistency of a thick paste. This will be found very handy in repairing cracked oil reservoirs or in making an oil-tight joint between two metal plates. The cement should be applied as soon as it is mixed, since it hardens very quickly.

Two Small Pox Cases At Tyndall

Two cases of small pox, at Tyndall, have been reported to the township trustees by Dr. F. M. Marshall, and he has advised a strict quarantine of the patients.

An epidemic of what appeared to be measles or chicken pox, has been prevalent in Tyndall for the past two months. A number of the symptoms were the same as small pox, but it was not until this week that anything so serious would develop.

None of the patients has been ill enough to be confined to his bed. For the first three or four days of the illness the victim suffers from a high fever, and after the temperature is apparently reduced, the patients break out with a rash. In most of the cases at Tyndall, no doctor has been called and the patients have been able to go about their work, during the entire illness. The cases reported by Dr. Marshall, however, are of a more critical type, and are being carefully watched.

Would Doom Species.

Harold was recovering from a case of typhoid fever and the doctor said he must drink plenty of buttermilk. Harold despised buttermilk, but he bravely drank the required amount. One day when the nurse brought in an exceptionally large glass he looked at it sadly and said: "Gee, I just wish every buttermilk cow in the world was dead!"

How Norwalk Got Its Name.

The city of Norwalk, Conn., is said to have been so named because, when purchased from the Indians, the northern boundary of the land was to extend northward from the sea one day's walk, according to the Indian marking of the distance.

6.75% Net Income

Today the cost of living has reached the high-water mark. Money has greater earning power—it costs more, that is, it commands a higher rate of interest, and the investor of large or small means should see to it that his funds are so invested as to secure maximum returns, safety considered. High income is desirable but not at risk of principal.

The Corcoran-Victor Co.

7% Cumulative Preferred Stock is non-taxable in state of Ohio. The average yearly earnings the past four years were equal to 6 1/2 times the preferred dividend requirement. Sinking fund requirements provide that 20% of the net earnings be used for redemption of preferred shares at $115.00 and accrued dividend, stock to be purchased in open market; based on average earnings about 500 shares will be retired yearly. Company furnishes lamps to about 50 automobile manufacturers and over 600 jobbers, besides supplying the demand of the motorcycle industry.

Present price to net 6.75%

The Common stock offers a splendid speculation. After providing for preferred dividend, the earnings show about 16 1/2 times the amount of stock, and no dividends paid as yet on this issue. Prospects very good. Stock offered at $120.00 per share.

Satire.
"There is no such word," said the philosopher, "as 'don't.' In the logic of things. For to say 'Don't do this' means that we must do something else. 'Don't' cannot evade doing—it merely diverts it to another form of deed. 'Don't' shapes human action, day after day, just as surely as—"

"Race Suicide"

The rights of husbands and wives to stipulate whether or not they shall be parents and how many children they shall have form a theme of a sensational motion picture that is expected to far surpass the popularity of "Damned Goods." In a frank but clean manner, this sex problem of world-wide interest is depicted in "Race Suicide," a six reel production that has been six months in the making and which will appear at the Mystic today and Saturday.

The subject is shorn of its sensual flavor in its treatment and will not offend any who have read the many recent discussions of the theme in the public press as well as the severe arraignment of the evil by former President Roosevelt. Allegorically, it depicts man in prehistoric ages when his limitations and infidelities were prompted by animal instincts and wild passion. It follows him thru Rome in its decadence thru the falsely courteous age of chivalry with splendid photography in effective locations, to the man and wife of today.

In the climax of the play, these two are shown, deciding to defer parenthood until they find it too late and then remorse overtakes them. Mystic today and Saturday—Adults 15 cents. Children not admitted unless with parents.

J. J. UEBEL

J. J. Uebel, of Clark township, has announced himself as a candidate for the nomination as Democratic county commissioner and his friends predict he will give a good account of himself at the primary election, August 8. Mr. Uebel was for 17 years a masonry contractor and his work in that line bears silent testimony to native ability and honest work. For the past 17 years he has been devoting his time to farming.

Sea Gulls.

Dwellers near the seacoast do not require a better weather sign than the gulls, which in the various winds that will bring the rain collect in big flocks and gather in the fields or circle high over the land, wheeling and screaming unceasingly. Investment Bought from Resident Salesmen

The difference between a salesman who resides permanently in his own territory and one who travels from place to place, is purely a moral difference, upon which it would be impossible to place a value in dollars and cents. Yet there is a difference, and it is one which tends to strengthen the position of the investor who purchases preferred stock from a resident salesman as well as the investment broker who markets securities through him.

For more than 12 years our preferred stocks have been marketed through resident salesmen, and the reason why these men (150 of them in all) stand so well among their friends and neighbors is because no one who acted on their advice has ever lost a dollar of principal or income on funds invested in our preferred stocks. At the same time these gentlemen know more about us than any individual investor ever has time to find out. They remain loyal through thick and thin because their own funds are invested in securities we have recommended, and they know by experience what to expect from us in the way of protection.

If you have $100 or more to invest, or if you are a responsible person, who should be able to discuss investments and other matters intelligently, we will send you a copy of our 1916 "Portfolio of Anniversary Reports." It contains detailed information about 20 large manufacturing enterprises and much valuable information about preferred stocks. We will send you this publication without obligation or expense if you will send us your name and address on a postcard. Do so at once, before you forget.

The Shadow of Doubt

Should a wife keep a single little secret from her husband? Alice Randolph did, and altho she was honest and true, her husband had involuntary doubts, which threatened a break between them. You want to see Carlyle Blackwell in the Equitable production, "The Shadow of Doubt," at the Pastime Theatre today and tomorrow afternoon and evening and avoid all occasions which may cast doubts about you.

CAPPER'S CRITICS
A Chicago paper the other day indulged in a caustic, cutting, killing criticism of Governor Capper, of Kansas, because he addressed the multitude in Topeka with his hands in his pockets. The article did not designate which pockets contained his hands, but the presumption is in favor of his trousers' pockets.
Several of the points scored by the Chicago paper will have to be admitted. It was, in a way, disrespectful to his auditors, altho we do not believe the governor was conscious of any disrespect. Neither was his pose as dignified as one could wish in the governor of an American commonwealth addressing his constituents. But we doubt if there were five of the latter who were impressed by this theatrical lack of dignity.
On the other hand a few things might be said in defense of the governor. The first that occurs to us is that he had his hands in his own pockets. Some of the gang that has been fighting Capper in and out of Kansas these last few years also have a seemingly ineradicable habit of jacking their hands into pockets, the only difference between them and Governor Capper is that they show a decided preference for sticking their hands in the pockets of other people, preferably of the tax-paying class.
Governor Capper addressing his people with his hands in his pockets may not be an Apollo for physical symmetry nor a model of oratorical propriety but when we remember in whose pockets he keeps his hands he loses nothing in comparison with some of his hypocritical detractors.

NOTABLE BIRTHDAYS TODAY
June 16
Professor Charles Vancouver Piper, botanist, acrosticologist in charge of forage crop investigations, Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture, is 49 years old today. He was born at Victoria, B. C., and educated at Harvard University. He was an ardent student of plant life from boyhood, and from 1892 to 1907, was professor of botany and zoology at the Washington Agricultural College where his work attracted the attention of the Department of Agriculture. This led to his being called to his present post as "Uncle Sam's grass man." Only three years ago as a result of Prof. Piper's experiments, Sudan grass, which has already proven its extraordinary value in the development of Texas and other semi-arid states, was introduced by the Department of Agriculture. Already it has created a remarkable revision of land values in some parts of Texas.

C. L. FLEMING 624 MAIN STREET

SLID DOWN HILL, BEAR RIGHT BEHIND

So Close Body Fell on Hunter When He Fired.

SKILL with a rifle has contributed a lot to his success as a missionary. In the opinion of the Rev. H. A. Musser, who, with his wife and their two children, arrived in San Francisco recently from the Orient. Eight years ago he went as district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal church to the mountains and jungles of central India.

"The weak and mild missionaries are very slow to gain the confidence of the Hindus," said Mr. Musser. "Much of my success was due to the fact that I managed to be of assistance to the natives in a physical sense. I have hunted lions, tigers and elephants."

phant, and I believe the barking of my rifles has done more for the missionary cause than my preaching."

At one place, the missionary related, he found the natives terrorized by the ravages of big black bears, which were more feared than any other beasts. Scores of men, women and children working in the cane fields had been attacked, and an appeal was made to the "white master" for help.

With his rifle Mr. Musser began the hunt, and he had killed several bears when word was brought to him that four of the animals had taken refuge in a cave. Musser and his guides entered a mountain side and routed the bears from their hiding place. Three fell before the missionary's weapon, but as the fourth charged from the cavern Musser's foot slipped, and he began to slide down the mountain, with the bear pursuing.

Halfway down a native threw himself in Musser's path and partly stopped his fall. Musser raised his rifle and fired. The bear was so close that its dead body fell on the missionary.

FALL INTO SHARKS' MAWS.

Three Men Try in Vain to Save Comrade From Big Fish.

Escaping in small boats from the steamboat Commodore, which had just foundered off Navitas, Cuba, only to be assailed by a huge school of man-eating sharks, which killed one of their number, a cook, the ten victims of the wrecked pleasure craft, which only recently left New York returned aboard the steamship Olinda. Each related a thrilling tale of adventure.

The Commodore left New York bound for Havana. Her voyage from the start was a tempestuous one and her crew was in terror from the moment the little vessel was abreast of Cape Hatteras. Confronted by weather and waves as that between New York and Coney Island, she was poorly prepared to withstand the gale and seas that struck her after leaving New York.

The vessel ran out of provisions, and Captain John Chambers put in to Navitas and then continued. The Commodore was steaming serenely when out of a dead calm a hurricane sprung up and the little vessel danced over the waves like a chip.

Within eight miles of shore the boat containing the captain and three men capsized. Sharks swarmed about them. The men shouted and fought as best they could, but one of the sharks seized Gottlieb Shaueritz of Corona, N. Y., by the leg and dragged him under. His comrades tried to rescue him in vain.

Jumped Over Bull's Head.

Nine-year-old Gerald Hopkins recently attracted the attention of Cincinnati athletes as a jumping possibility for the high jump at the Olympic games. A vicious bull escaped from confinement in a farm yard while it was charging toward the little boy and got in its path. The bull lowered its head and came on in a collected way, but the boy crouched and hunched the bull's head just as he has often jumped a fine pony. He slid off and landed into a nearby hedge before the bull could renew the attack. New York Evening Sun.

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my class division, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will not find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired."—Albert S. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ., April 28, 1911.

Mr. Blakley, Dayton, Ohio, says:

"I was suffering from a prolonged and stubborn case of indigestion, which neither doctors or druggists were able to even relieve to any great extent. A few doses of your remedy, however, not only relieved the distress, but drove it away entirely, without any recurrence in the last ten days. I am consequently very thankful. I certainly will not, in the future, be without them, as my trouble was of long standing."

Pepsinco (the perfect digestant) will save your stomach, no matter what the trouble.

We put it up to Hundreds of Dentists

Long before SENRECO was offered to you we submitted it to hundreds of dentists, requesting that they put it to every test. Told them that we believed Senreco to be an unusually good dentifrice, especially as to its cleansing qualities and its remedial action on sore, soft, bleeding gums; in the treatment of Pyorrhea, etc. Submitted the formula and asked them their opinion. They tested Senreco from every angle; some going even so far as to make a chemical analysis—

And They Voted Yes

With practically one accord—said:

"Senreco appeals to me more than any dentifrice I have ever seen." "I cannot say too much for Senreco. It's one of the best I have used." "I can recommend Senreco as the best." "Makes the teeth gleam and is free from injurious ingredients, including perfume and grit." "I am indeed glad to get a tooth paste that does the work." "Congratulations on your formulating a dentifrice that gives one a new idea of mouth cleanliness, etc." (These quotations are from the dentists' reports. Originated on file at our office.)

With such endorsements from the men who know; why not go to your druggist today and get a tube of SENRECO—25c. Keep your teeth REALLY CLEAN, and protect yourself against Pyorrhea and decay.

A copy of the folder, "The Most General Disease in the World" together with a liberal trial size tube of SENRECO will be mailed you for 4c in stamps. The Senreco Remedies Co., Inc., Dept. 8, Monroe Temple, Cincinnati, Ohio.
